

2020 Homebuyer Preferences

A recent study from HarrisX shows the current health crisis isn't slowing down today's homebuyers. Consumers are still optimistic about buying a home in the current environment.

When asked about buying a home, 55% of consumers are more optimistic today and 33% mentioned no change due to the impact of the coronavirus.

41% of homebuyers are accelerating their purchasing timelines today

63% of consumers are saving more money, which can be put toward a down payment

If your needs have changed recently and you're thinking of making a move, taking advantage of today's low mortgage rates and any savings you may have accrued while sheltering-in-place is an opportunity you won't want to miss.
